Marianela Núñez has been Argentina's artistic ambassador to the world for 20 years

Marianela Núñez has been a global ambassador of Argentina at the Royal Ballet — school, stage and heart of world ballet — for the past 20 years. Her artistry, talent and dedication paved the way for her to become Principal of the Royal Ballet in 2002. Prior to this, she entered the Royal Ballet School and joined the company. Earlier on, she honed her abilities at the Teatro Colón from the age of 14 and began touring. And right before all of this, she was a 3 year old girl who dreamed of dancing.

Now, whenever she visits Argentina, she is involved in workshops in San Martín, the neighbourhood where it all started. When artists cross borders, they become universal. This celebration, the multiple international awards along her career and these words are a way of paying tribute to a great artistic ambassador and to all her teachers. Thank you Marianela. Happy 20th anniversary!

Following her performance at the Royal Opera House on 01/02/2018 the Ambassador of Argentina in the UK awarded a silver plate to Marianela Núñez on stage. In recognition of her career spanning two decades, the inscription read: "The Embassy of Argentina in the UK celebrates Marianela Nuñez’s 20 years of success with the Royal Ballet, 1st February, 2018".
